Rather more than nineteen years ago you carried out from hence to their resting place the mortal remains of John Henry Cardinal Newman. When a man is just dead, and his soul has but recently passed into the presence of the Judge, his praises, as they rise to our lips, are checked by the thought that his sentence is fresh recorded in heaven, and his soul may haply be lying in a condition which calls for our prayers and intercessions rather than for our eulogiums. But purgatory is unlike hell in this, that every day in purgatory brings increase of hope. Many days have gone by since 11 August, 1890; and the sum of those days mounting up engenders in our hearts a firm confidence that by this time the soul of John Henry Newman has ascended to his place among the Princes of the Church Triumphant. Thence, as he looks down, may it be an access to his joy to behold this day s celebration and this splendid basilica, or, as I may call it, his new Cardinal s titular church, built for him here where he lived and died, to enshrine his memory and - may we hope? - his mortal remains for all time.
