Excerpt: . THE BISHOPRIC The crying need is for leaders, first in New Guinea, after that for the northern shores of Australia from east to west. I believe we are verily guilty of neglect of an obvious duty and shall miss the blessing of God if we lose any more time in putting at the head of our Mission in New Guinea, which is now some years old, the natural leader in the Church. He alone can speak and act with authority. I do not hesitate to state my own conviction that every Church Mission should commence with a Bishop. Let him be, if you like, the only worker at first, let him contain within himself the germ and development of all that is to come. --Bishop Montgomery of Tasmania (sermon in Sydney Cathedral, July 21, 1895). CHAPTER III THE BISHOPRIC 1898) IN his address...
